From the Desk of the CEO

Council at its March meeting approved the CEO's appointment of David Holland to the position of Works Supervisor. David will commence work at the shire on the 6th May 2019. He has 30 years' experience in local government with 15 of those years in supervisors/managers roles most recently at the Shire of Mount Magnet. David's experience and knowledge will be a bonus for the shire in filling a position that has caused us some problems in recent years.

The other items dealt with by Council at the March meeting were the adoption of the Compliance Audit Return and the decision to replace the floor in the Visitor Centre/Museum with new jarrah boards, as the difference between this and the alternative of particle board covered in a floor board look alike vinyl was only two and a half thousand dollars and the jarrah boards should last a lot longer.

Council also decided to purchase a Hino truck to replace the current service truck which is also a Hino, the truck arm of the Toyota Motor company.

Unfortunately work on the Visitor Centre/Museum is not tracking as quickly as we had hoped and the opening of the season on the 15 April may take place with the town hall being used as a makeshift visitor centre. The painters have been busy in the old school and the town hall and they are both looking good. New stands have been ordered for the photo display in the town hall and the telescope has been fixed and will be used to provide a stargazing experience to visitors to Sandstone this year.

Tenders have been called for the supply of the 2 new units for the caravan park and it is hoped that they may still be delivered prior to the end of this financial year with bookings already taken.

These things together with the shires involvement in the Murchison Geo Tourism project and the construction of the bowling green will provide some different experiences for visitors and locals in Sandstone this tourist season.

HISTORY CORNER— An excerpt from the book

"Sandstone—from Gold to Wool and Back Again" by Sally L Senior

SATELLITE TOWNS —pg 297

Anketell

Anketell was situated approximately 20 miles west of Sandstone on the railway line, and was a major stopping place for the trains as they took on water there from the nearby Jundoo Dam for the journey to Sandstone, and again on the return journey. Anketell was not a settlement in the normal sense of the word, as it was a sheep station; however, it is included because of the wayside hotel that was built there by A.G. Moses. This was later sold to W Truth for 600pd. The buildings of this wayside hotel were totally destroyed by fire in November 1912.

Curran's Find

There was great excitement when James Curran found a slug of gold weighing 3 ounces 15 pennyweight at an area 16 miles sough of Youanmi in September 1908. This area was to be known, naturally, as Curran's Find. The main disadvantage of this new find was that there was no water within 20 miles of the field, the closest being at Youanmi. Within a week, there were thirty to forty prospectors at the new field south of Youanmi, and on the strength of this, Curran and Martin applied for a reward claim.

By April 1909, Curran's Find was progressing well, with Bellchambers and Smith operating an 18 acre lease that was producing 2 ounces to the ton of ore, so proving itself to be viable, while Curran and party were getting 10 pennyweight to the ton, which was not, at that time, considered a viable output. Water was very scarce in the area, which made life hard for the prospectors.

Curran's, as a field, did not ever really get off the ground, seeming to have too many problems that outweighed the gold procured, and at times this was poor by anyone's standards. By February, 1913, work was almost at a stand-still at Curran's, with only two shows still working. One of these, the Red White and Blue Gold Mine, received a government loan of 1,500 Pd in March 1913 for a five-head battery at Curran's Find, so that it could continue to operate; however, this was only short-lived.

Paynes Find

Paynes Find is not within the Sandstone Shire, but is worthy of note because it was Tom Payne who discovered gold there in June 1911, having travelled there from Youanmi. This new discovery was made 110 miles south west of Mt Magnet, 50 miles south east of Field's Find, and 8 miles north of Clinch's Cooligon Station. In July 1914, Tom Payne was reported to have obtained from the Carnation lease there 670 ounces of gold from 474 tons of ore, making a total for this lease of 1,487 ounces of gold from 974 tons of ore. The first wayside house license at Paynes Find was granted to W J Green in July 1914.

Redcastle

Approximately 18 miles south west of Montague was the Redcastle group of mines, which took their ore to Birrigin for crushing. A walk through the hills to the north of Redcastle still reveals the remnants of the old tracks made by the drays taking ore to Birrigin for crushing.

In August 1905, it was reported that the Redcastle, the Redcastle West & the Redcastle Extended were purchased by Alec Kirkland for a Victorian syndicate for 4,000 Pds.

Like many other groups in the district, the Redcastle mines were very rich while they operated. However, they did not have a very long life, and the area was never more than a group of mines and prospectors camps, generally using Birrigin as their centre for socialising and replenishing their provisions. The ore from this area was mostly crushed at Birrigin once a battery was operational there, and many old three track roads (one track each for the 2 wheels of the dray and one made by the horse) can still be found winding through the hills between there and Birrigin.

Between 1905 and 1910, the Redcastle Gold Mine produced 462.3 ounces of gold from 207tons of ore, which gives some indication of the value of the ore mined there, although it must be remembered that as this was an isolated group of mines, they would cart only the most valuable ore to the battery, discarding much that had to be mined to get to the rich patches but which did not warrant carting to the distant battery.
